Principles for Repayment of the Industry–Academia Scholarship

If a student withdraws from the program before completion or fails to fulfill the employment obligation after graduation, the repayment rules for the Industry–Academia Scholarship are as follows:

A) No Repayment Required (Reasons Not Attributable to the Student)

1. If the original partner company discontinues providing the living allowance due to operational adjustments during the student's period of study, and the student is unable to obtain continued sponsorship from another company despite assistance from the university, resulting in withdrawal from the program.
2. If the original partner company has no available job openings upon the student's graduation due to operational adjustments, and the student, despite documented, reasonable, and active job-seeking efforts through regular recruitment processes and employment information, referrals, or other reasonable assistance provided by the University where appropriate, is still unable to secure employment with another suitable company.

3. If, during the student's employment, the partner company engages in conduct that meets the conditions specified in Paragraph 1, Article 14 of the Labor Standards Act (allowing the employee to terminate the contract), and the student is unable to obtain continued employment with another suitable company despite university assistance.
4. If the student dies, or is unable to continue studying or working due to a major illness or accidental injury, and such inability is certified by a teaching hospital accredited under the Ministry of Health and Welfare's new hospital accreditation system; or if a major family incident caused by an accident prevents the student from continuing study or employment, and the university verifies the situation to be true.

B) Repayment Required (Reasons Attributable to the Student)

1. If the student withdraws from the program due to personal reasons during the study period, such as transferring to another school or department, taking a leave of absence to return home, voluntarily giving up the program after counseling by the university, or being dismissed or expelled according to university regulations.
2. If the student fails to meet the academic or performance standards required by the university and the partner company, shows no improvement after counseling, and is dismissed or expelled according to university regulations, the student must repay the scholarship already received.
3. If, after graduation, the student chooses not to work for the partner company or in a related industry sector, or if the student is legally terminated for violating company regulations and fails to improve after counseling by the university, the student must repay all Industry–Academia Scholarship funds received.
